Hi, I am Dr.
Akita

Our workshop is about gender communication styles in Japan and the U.S. We will first provide basic concepts and information about gender-based interpersonal communication styles in two countries. Then, you will participate in various activities and exercises we have designed to help you understand gender communication with strangers, friends, colleagues, relatives, and romantic partners. It is our hope that you will become more aware of your gender and communication style and be able to achieve successful gender communication.

Please join us at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, June 9th, 2016, in the Multi-Purpose Hall at Aichi Prefectural University.

This workshop will be conducted in English.
Japanese translation assistance will be provided, if it is necessary.
